Death in December

I had a present for a friend:
She doesn't need it now,
For death has sealed her gentle lips
And smoothed her troubled brow.
Yet what a Christmas gift is hers—
None other, Lord, than Thou.

- Paula Kurth

For our beloved Katie Bischak who left us so suddenly last December, a dear friend, a faithful parishioner, a devoted sacristan. Rest in peace.

The Stars Sang in God's Garden

The stars sang in God's garden;
The stars are the birds of God;
The night-time is God's harvest,
The fruits are the words of God.

God ploughed His fields at morning,
God sowed His seed at noon,
God reaped and gathered in His corn
With the rising of the moon.

The sun rose up at midnight,
The sun rose red as blood,
It showed the Reaper, the dead
Christ,
Upon His cross of wood.

For many live that one may die,
And one must die that many live—
The stars are silent in the sky
Lest my poor songs be fugitive.

- Joseph Mary Plunkett

We dedicate the stars of the Christmas night to our dear and devoted dead of this past year, who truly lived for others: Sharon Patton, Jane Donadio, Jan Becker, Loraine
Gates, Bee Lutkehaus, Connie Kamphaus, Pat Patton, and still remembering Becky Mattingly, Paulina Strauss, Thelma Sieverding, and Katie Bischak.
